Mrs. Murphy are now residents of Naino, B.C. They left on Sunday morning for a motor trip over the Banff-Windermere highway, via Calgary. Mr. Naylor accompanied them to Cranbrook, returning by train.

McKay, Mrs. Simister and Mrs. D. A. Howe.

DEATH OF MRS. STEWART

There passed away in Blairmore on Saturday evening, last, September 10, another of the very few remaining who have passed the four-score-years mark, in the person of Mrs. Mary Ann Stewart, aged 81.

The late Mrs. Stewart was born at Stanton-on-Wold, Nottinghamshire, England, on August 27th, 1857, and came to Blairmore with her family in 1910. She was twice married, ex-Mayor William Knight being child of the first union. Besides her second husband, who passed away in 1910, she was predeceased by two daughters, Mrs. L. Chipperfield in 1927, and Mrs. G. H. Snod in 1928. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. Pifford, of Blairmore, and three sons, Charles Stewart at home, William and J. Knight, residing respectively in Blairmore and England.

Funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from the Crows' Nest Undertaking parlor to the United church, where service was conducted by Rev. A. E. Arrol, B.A., following which the remains were laid to rest in the Blairmore union cemetery.

Pallbearers were: J. B. Harmer, Samuel Patterson, Samuel Crawford, James Stewart, D. C. Drain and Geo. Patterson.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Miss Miller, of New Orleans, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Cochran, of North Fork.

Mrs. Percy Burtles has returned from an extended visit with relatives and friends in England, Scotland and Holland. She reports a most interesting time while away.

Henry Dionne, around ten years, had a near serious accident when he lost his hand and arm caught in a wringer of a power washing machine, crushing the arm up to above the elbow. He was rushed to a doctor for treatment.

REV. DR. BRYCE CONCLUDES CHURCH MODERATORSHIP

Toronto, Sept. 10.—When the General Council of the United Church of Canada convenes in Toronto on September 21st, the sessions will mark the two-year moderatorship of the Right Rev. Dr. Peter Bryce, who immediately after Council will take up his new duties as minister of Metropolitan United church in Toronto.

Election of a successor to Dr. Bryce as moderator will be one of the first items of business of the General Council.

Dr. Bryce was born in Blantyre, Scotland, and came to this continent in 1903 as a missionary to Newfoundland. In 1906 he entered Victoria College, Toronto, in preparation for the Methodist ministry. While a student, he began a pastorate which continued for fifteen years in the industrial suburb known as Earlscourt. There he built seven churches and organized eight Sunday schools. He founded the Earlscourt children's home during his work in this section of Toronto. He was the first president of Toronto's family welfare organization. On the formation of the Federation of Community Service, he was made its first president. For many years he advocated the formation of a mothers' allowance board for Ontario, and was made the first chairman of that body on its formation. He has been secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance committee of the United church since its inception, and was elected moderator in 1936. Three years ago he was appointed delegate to the Presbyterian Assembly, the Methodist Conference and the Congregational Union in Great Britain. He was representative of the United Church at the coronation of King George VI.

During his term as moderator, Dr. Bryce has visited all the conferences of the church from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

C. P. RAILWAY SPENDS MORE ON ADVERTISING

For every $1,000 of passenger revenue, the Canadian Pacific Railway spent in 1937 $42.09 in advertising on the Canadian National, for every $1,000 of passenger revenue, the advertising expenditure was $36.61.

The Canadian Pacific also has greater expenditure in the maintenance of agencies soliciting freight and passenger business in other countries than does the Canadian National. In all other major items of expense, the Canadian National is higher than the Canadian Pacific, according to evidence submitted to the special senate committee on railways. This evidence appears at pages 1115 and 1116 of the official proceedings.

W. J. Patterson, premier of Saskatchewan, accompanied by two friends, spent several days fishing on the Castle River, southwest of Kelly's Camp. Charlie Montie, of Pincher Creek, went with him as guide. Unlike Aberhart's visit to Saskatchewan, Premier Patterson was not looking for suckers, and his visit to Alberta was really a pleasant one.

FINE SHOW AT BELLEVUE. DAHLIAS, GLADIOLI EXCEL

The annual exhibition held in Bellevue on Labor Day, September 5th, was stated by the judges to be an exceptionally good show, and one of the finest in the province for high standard of quality. Since the inauguration of the exhibition twenty-one years ago, the people have rallied round the organizers and given that material support which is so necessary for the successful running of a show of such magnitude. Perhaps the most interesting feature in connection with the show was in the decorative classes, the standard of work of this type was much better than at previous exhibitions of the society, and the staging in all cases was excellent.

One regrettable feature was the poor support given the exhibition, owing to most of the camps having sports on that day. May I make a suggestion that one man from each camp be chosen to make a committee of the whole to allot those special days to each camp, so whichever community had sports on their allotted day would have the other camps to draw from and help to make a success of their undertaking that day. Yours for co-operation.

STEPHEN T. HUMBLE.

JOSEPH LABOURIER PASSES SUDDENLY

Joseph A. Labourier, well known old-limer and carpenter-builder, passed away suddenly at Bellevue on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Labourier had been in poor health for a number of years, but of late had been showing considerable signs of improvement, so that his sudden demise comes as a great shock to the many in The Pass who knew him quite intimately.

His wife predeceased him several years ago.

Mr. Labourier was a native of France, coming to Canada and The Pass in the early days here.

Funeral will take place on Saturday forenoon, and the remains will be laid to rest in Our Lady of Lourdes cemetery at Bellevue.

An order has been issued for the arrest on treason charges of Konrad Henlein, militant leader of the Sudeten minority in Czechoslovakia.

"SMILIN' ED. MCCONNELL"

Of interest to all radio listeners will be the appearance over Alberta stations of the well-known radio artist, "Smilin' Ed. McConnell."

"Smilin' Ed." is famous to the south, and Albertans also are bound to fall victims to his charm and cheery personality, and the magic of his voice, which have made his "Hymn-time" programme an outstanding feature of the air. In sheer contrast to the "pop" programmes so much in vogue, "Smilin' Ed." starts the day serenely with fifteen minutes of hymns and homely philosophy.

The millers of Robin Hood Flour are sponsoring this programme through the winter months each Monday, Wednesday and Friday over stations CFAC, Calgary, at 8.30 a.m. and CJOC, Lethbridge, at 8.45 a.m.

21 RAILWAYS TAKEN OVER BY DOMINION GOVERNMENT

Since 1911, the Canadian government has taken over 21 railways. The first, in 1911, was 12 1/2 miles, owned by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, and the last, in 1929, was 158 miles of the St. John and Quebec Railway.

The biggest system acquired was the Canadian Northern, 9,513 miles, in 1917, and the smallest, 8 miles, from the Montreal Tramways Company, in 1924. The Grand Trunk Pacific was 2,782 miles long, and the Grand Trunk 5,307 miles.

The Northern Alberta Railways, 927 miles, were acquired jointly by the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific in 1929.

RAILWAY ABANDONMENTS

Between 1918 and 1936, a period of expansion in Canada, more than 3,000 miles of railway line were abandoned. These were virtually all duplications of lines owned by the Canadian government through acquisition of the Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk Pacific and Grand Trunk railways.

Elevator agents in this Social Credit province of Alberta have become collection agents for the provincial government in their intensive drive this year to collect seed grain, feed, fuel oil, and other loans due the government. Every elevator office in this province has been furnished with lists containing hundreds of names of government debtors, with instructions to deduct the amount opposite these names from the grain delivered. Formerly this sort of work was handled through the office of the sheriff in the various judicial districts, but now these seizures of grain have been forced on the elevator companies by the government. If the practice continues to grow, elevator concerns will require much larger office staffs to handle this government collection agency end of their business.—Trochu Tribune.

ITALY TAKES SIDES WITH GERMANY AND SUDETENS

Rome.—Italy, siding with Germany, advised Czechoslovakia semi-officially to heed the autonomy demands of her German minority. The Italian position was outlined in Informations Diplomatiques, authoritative organ issued occasionally by the official Stefani News Agency. Diplomats attribute to it the importance of a government communiqué.

The semi-official statement refrained from saying what Italy might do in case Czechoslovakia refused to come to terms with the Sudeten German minority.

It cautioned Prague of "a great crisis" unless the Czech-Slovakia turned a deaf ear to counsel which it said came from French and Soviet quarters with the "perhaps hypothetical" possibility of aid.

The statement said Italy had refrained from calling reserves to colors or other military action, presumably troop movements, because she believed an agreement with Czechoslovakia possible. It indicated, however, Rome was ready "to face immediately any eventualities."

The statement added: "The attitude of Italy has been and is, in conformity with the policy of the (Rome-Berlin) axis, clearly favorable to the demands formulated by Konrad Henlein and his famous eight points of Karlovy Vary."

It said Henlein had not asked pure and simple separation of Germans from Czechoslovakia, and disclaimed for Germany any intention to wrest Sudeten territory from the war-created republic.

Rather, it added, such a "radical solution" had been suggested by newspapers, the statement naming The London Times and La République of Paris.

The authoritative editor, Virginia Corda, in Il Giornale d'Italia, said: "In 24 hours the situation has been overturned." He blamed the Czechoslovaks for "deliberate or unrestrained exasperations of open injury" which he said Germany would not suffer indefinitely.

Farm Machinery Demand

Farmers in Alberta Purchasing Large Quantities This Year
Calgary.—Demand for trucks and farm machinery by southern Alberta farmers was described as extraordinary by dealers in Calgary and at country points.

Faced with the prospect of the first good crop in years, Alberta farmers are purchasing in large numbers, hundreds of thousands of dollars to replace worn-out equipment.

An official of one large truck concern declared the company had done more business so far this year than in any year in the past ten.

"We have sold every new and used truck we had on hand and are awaiting fresh supplies," he said. "Business is more than double that of last year."

Mark Boundary Line

Surveyors Work on the Alberta-Saskatchewan Line in North Edmonton.—A party of surveyors have returned here after completing the marking of the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary from Lake Athabasca to the 60th parallel, a distance of 48 miles. Last winter the same party surveyed the boundary across Lake Athabasca.

The party, flown here from their northern camp, included B. W. Waugh, of Ottawa, T. Inkster, of the Alberta department of public works, and O. Martin, of the Saskatchewan department of public works.

Alberta Oil

Drive to Have Turner Valley Oils Used in All Refineries

Calgary.—Several oil refineries in the west are operating on imported crude because of a mistaken idea that all Turner Valley oil is contracted for by major oil companies, it was revealed in replies to letters sent all western refiners by E. W. Kolb, secretary of the Alberta Petroleum association. The association is continuing its drive to have Turner Valley crude used in all western refineries. Mr. Kolb said.

British Soldiers Killed
Jerusalem.—Explosion of a heavy land mine under a military patrol killed two British soldiers and wounded four on the northern frontier road near Khan Samakh. Scatterer shrapnel cost the lives of 11 Arabs and four Jews.

War-Time Organization

French Reserves Called Up By New Military Order

Paris.—A new military order issued by the war ministry sent trained infantry reserve troops into the Maginot line at the frontier opposite Germany for a 21-day period.

The instructions were received shortly after the government announced its "requisition" of the Port of Marseille, placing the most important Mediterranean inlet for French African troops and supplies under military control.

The order was said to concern only infantry fortress troops of the second class—the lowest military class. The Maginot defences generally are said to be at normal garrison with 100,000 men but officers in the zone say 350,000 would be a conservative estimate of the garrison's present strength. This figure did not take account of the new order.

The military's assumption of control in Marseille port was by government decree. It invoked terms of the nation's wartime organization law to hold the strategic communications centre over to the army as the highest French military and civil officials of North Africa cut vacations short and hurried back to their posts.

NEW TENSION IN EUROPE OVER THE CZECH SITUATION

London.—Suspension of negotiations in the Czechoslovak-Sudeten German autonomy quarrel caused new tension throughout Europe.

Great Britain was reported seeking to restrain Germany, "protector" of the Sudeten German minority, from any warlike action and was bringing new pressure to bear in Prague when the Nazi-style Sudeten German party suddenly broke off negotiations with the Prague government.

This development aroused grave fears in London, Paris and other European capitals. It was quickly followed by reports from Nuremberg that Chancellor Hitler had told Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German party, to refuse to deal with Prague on the latest offer.

While the British foreign office withheld comment pending official information, there was no attempt in official circles to conceal the gravity with which they viewed the abrupt turn of events.

Penmanship over the breach in negotiations was the greater because of the manner in which German demands for an assault on Sudeten Germans.

There was a feeling in high quarters that if Germany resorted to force it would be on an invitation from Henlein to preserve order—remnant of the manner in which Germany annexed Austria.

Another important factor in the widespread anxiety was that Hitler was believed to have insisted on a situation before he makes his pronouncement of the matter before the Nazi party congress at Nuremberg.

There still was no evidence that Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, had been able to deliver Great Britain's admonition to Hitler that any war in Europe might become general.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, already advised of British stand by Sir Neville, was believed not to have conveyed to Hitler the full importance of the admonition.

Certain diplomatic quarters feared that Hitler might be planning to use force to carry out the Sudeten German demands unaware that the British might fight for Czechoslovakia.

Prime Minister Chamberlain returned to London from his vacation in Scotland for a conference with Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, on the latest developments in the crisis.

The rupture in negotiations followed closely upon a statement in London by an authorized British spokesman which was interpreted as an indirect warning to the German government and the Sudeten Germans to consider seriously the latest Prague concessions.

The spokesman said the Czechoslovak proposals "seem to represent a basis on which negotiations might well be conducted" and "it is hoped here that both sides will get together and examine them in a spirit of good will."

Killed in Plane Crash
Santiago, Chile.—Lieut. Ernesto Hermann was killed in the crash of a new Italian Nord, one of several planes purchased recently from Italy.

Italian Race Doctrine

Discord Between the Vatican and Fascism is in Evidence

Vatican City.—Fresh evidence of discord between the Vatican and Fascism over the new Italian doctrine of race appeared in L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper.

The newspaper attributed to Pope Pius the view the anti-Semitic doctrines "concerns a great and serious error which reaches the steps of the altar, touching Catholic doctrine."

Simultaneously, a Fascist warning was given to Jews abroad that a boycott of Italian goods might work against Jews in Italy.

Il Giornale d'Italia, edited by the authoritative Fascist, Virginio Gayda, commented on a despatch telling of a move by London Jews to boycott Italian goods.

"The fate of Italian Hebrews is still in the balance," the paper said. "But it is certain that if Hebrews of two worlds want to mix themselves in unadvised gestures, the situation of Italian Hebrews might become rather serious."

The movement to eliminate Jews from official life proceeded steadily. In Milan a Jewish lawyer, Vittorio Sacerdoti, resigned from the bar as a result of the racial program announced July 14. Numerous Jewish army and navy officers were reported to have tendered their resignations.

The pope was not quoted directly in his remarks to 400 Italian school teachers at Castel Gandolfo. The following, in part, was L'Osservatore's summary:

"His holiness mentioned the cardinal points of racialism set by university teachers. To these points were appended a series of comments and it is not known whether they were made by the writers of the points or by those who published them."

"Nevertheless, the idea in these comments have been repeated and spread everywhere through the Italian and foreign press and are taking ground everywhere. It concerns a great and serious error which reaches the steps of the altar, touching Catholic doctrine."

Floods Follow Typhoon

Fire Also Adds To Destruction In Central Japan

Tokyo.—Fire and floods swept central Japan in the wake of a 97-mile-an-hour typhoon which left at least 100 dead and destroyed property over a wide area.

Fire broke out in the city of Takao, at the base of Noto peninsula and leveled more than 2,000 dwellings, public buildings and schools. Osaka reported 15,000 homes are flooded. At Kobe 31 ships were sunk or damaged.

U. S. Relief Figures

Washington.—The social security board reported that probably about 20,800,000 persons received public assistance in the United States during July.

Fish Company Robbed

Vancouver.—Burglars raided a fish company receiving garage at the mouth of False Creek while the attendant was absent, and escaped with $3,300 in cash.

FRANCE'S PREMIER WATCHES ALPINE MANOEUVRES

SIR ROBERT DALTON

His Majesty's Senior Trade Commissioner in Australia and one-time Senior Trade Commissioner in Canada, photographed as he arrived in Montreal on a visit to the Dominion. Sir Robert said that lower wool prices of last year had led to "quiet" trade for Great Britain in Australia this year.

Wheat Exports

Canada May Supply the Bulk of Britain's Requirements

Washington.—The bureau of agricultural economics forecast the United Kingdom probably would import about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat during the 1938-39 marketing season. Imports during the past season totalled 181,000,000 bushels.

Canada probably will supply the bulk of the British requirements, the bureau said, "not only because British millers have a preference for Canadian wheat but also because of the large surplus in that country this year."

British imports from the United States, which totalled 31,000,000 bushels last year, were listed for a probable decline.

Meanwhile, the agriculture department reported it had purchased 9,138,983 bushels of wheat for sale to exporters, under its export subsidy program.

Sales to exporters to date totalled 1,868,264 bushels. The wheat was sold by the government to the foreign shippers at losses from four to seven cents a bushel.

Britain's Huge Debt

National Debt Now Said To Be Highest in History

London.—Great Britain's national debt was revealed to have passed the $8,000,000,000 (about $40,000,000) for the first time in history.

A government white paper showed the total debt outstanding March 21 was $8,026,143,422, an increase of $228,913,678 (about $1,144,999,390) over a year ago.

Since 1919, Britain's debt had fluctuated around $7,000,000,000, but rearmament expanded expenditures.

War Plane Production

New York.—Production of war planes in Canadian factories to speed up the British rearmament drive will get underway with minimum delay. A. H. Self, a member of the British four-man air mission to Canada, said as he sailed for England.

Supplementary Brief

Manitoba To Present New Case To Rowell Commission

Winnipeg.—Premier John Bracken announced Manitoba would present a supplementary brief to the Rowell commission on Dominion-provincial relations when provincial representatives appear at the commission's final sessions in Ottawa, probably late in October.

The restatement of the Manitoba case, much of which will be applicable to all three prairie provinces, is being prepared partly as rebuttal to the claims of Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario and the submissions of other eastern provinces.

Few Immigrants

Say Prospects For Settlers From Britain Not Very Bright

Sydney, N.S.W.—Prospects of the Dominion otherwise a great number of immigrants from the United Kingdom in the future have dwindled sharply with the falling birth rate in Britain, the British commonwealth relations conference learned from its British delegation.

Britain actually has been receiving immigrants in recent years as its population tended to become stationary or possibly even decline, it was stated.

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE BREXEN GUN CONTRACT

Ottawa.—With instructions to make the most complete examination possible, Mr. Justice H. H. Davis of the supreme court of Canada was appointed a three-man commission to investigate the contract awarded the John Inglis company of Toronto for 7,000 Bren machine guns.

A statement from Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the inquiry would have as its particular object an investigation of the charges brought by Col. George A. Drew, Toronto lawyer, in a magazine article criticizing the handling of this contract.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, K.C., Montreal lawyer and former minister of national defence, will be counsel to assist the commission and "the government is prepared to pay the reasonable expenses and remuneration of counsel for Colonel Drew, should he wish to engage counsel to assist him."

Mr. Justice Davis agreed to undertake the inquiry on the understanding that he will receive only his out-of-pocket expenses. He is expected to open the investigation in Ottawa on or before Sept. 19.

Col. Drew is being invited to appear before the commissioner and to tend whatever assistance he may.

The reference to the commission were considered broad enough, Mr. Mackenzie King said, to cover all the allegations mentioned in Col. Drew's article.

"Should it appear to the commissioner in the course of his inquiry that the terms or wording of the reference are to this end inadequate in any particular, the reference will be so enlarged as, in the opinion of the commissioner, will serve adequately to its intended purpose," the prime minister said.

In all defence measures taken by the government, he said, it was desired that "not only shall there be no wrongdoing but no suspicion of wrongdoing."

Col. Drew's article, "Canada's Armament Mystery," was published in a periodical dated Sept. 1 but appearing in circulation considerably earlier. It questioned the statements made in the house of commons by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, on awarding of the contract and criticized it from several angles.

"The article published by Col. Drew cannot but create suspicion on these matters in the minds of Canadian people," the prime minister said.

R.C.M.P. Band For Regina

Rescued From Burning Boat

Only one passenger was reported missing. Eleven other passengers and the crew were high stranded in a French and an Italian steamship. 2272

HOSPITAL PROBE ORDERED TO BE HELD IN ONTARIO

Toronto.—Possible forerunner of a widespread probe of Ontario mental hospitals to determine if sane persons were being detained improperly, a royal commission of inquiry assembled at Premier Hepburn's Queen's park office.

Creation of the commission was ordered by the premier as the result of his personal knowledge of the case of John R. Green, St. Thomas lawyer. He said Green was held in the Ontario hospital, London, for two years and nine months after his commitment for "observation" on an intoxication charge.

"In my opinion he was never a mental case at any time," Mr. Hepburn said.

The Green case led the premier to ask Hon. Harold Kirby, minister of health, to order suspension of Dr. George H. Stevenson, superintendent of the London hospital, pending the investigation. Dr. McGeough, Dr. Stevenson's assistant, will be in charge of the hospital while Dr. Kirby is in London.

Clifford R. Magone, solicitor in the attorney-general's department, is head of the commission. Other members: Dr. William H. Avery, Toronto physician; Lionel Conacher, Liberal member of the legislature for Toronto; Braddon and vice-chancellor of the Ontario athletic commission.

The commission will inquire particularly into the Green case but the premier indicated the health department had the names of at least 300 more cases which probably would be investigated.

The premier said Green was released by order of the health minister after departmental medical officials completed a thorough investigation of his case. The commission will inquire into circumstances surrounding his commitment.

"We have a strong suspicion that many people are being held improperly," the premier said.

In addition to the investigation, Mr. Hepburn suggested changes probably would be made at the next legislative session in the Mental Hospitals act. Consideration would be given to the suggestion that a "visiting committee" should be appointed for every hospital to ensure that patients would not be improperly detained.

Grain From Churchill

Two Boats To Carry Shipments From E. B. Fort This Season

Montreal.—Two freighters have been chartered to date to carry Canadian grain from Churchill, Hudson Bay port, to old world markets. C. C. Lawes of Montreal Shipping Company said.

The Rudy and the Daley, small British tramps owned by the Hopper Shipping Company of West Hartlepool, are expected at the Manitoba seaport between Sept. 23 and 25 to load 30,000 bushels each.

Reports booked the same day later, Mr. Lawes said. No grain was shipped from Churchill last season due to the short Saskatchewan crop. Navigation will be open this year until about Oct. 10. It was expected in Winnipeg the wheat board notified elevator companies handling the board's grain to ship certain grades from specified districts to the northern port, whose elevators can handle 2,500,000 bushels.

On Spanish Front

Hand-to-Hand Fighting Reported In Savage Warfare

Hendaye, France.—Savage hand-to-hand fighting marked the conflict on the Ebro front as insurgents sought to smash Spanish government defence lines.

Reports booked the field said the insurgents pushed hardest south of Gaudes and along the Gaudes-Mora de Ebro highway.

In the first sector, they attempted to capture the foothills of the Fatula mountains, approximately 12 miles north of Gaudes.

Along the highway, insurgent General Franco's troops tried to dislodge the government militiamen from the Sierra de Los Caballos.

New Vancouver Bridge

Vancouver.—Engineers in charge of construction work on the new First Narrows suspension bridge over the entrance to Vancouver's harbor said they expected to have the 1,500-foot structure ready for opening by the middle of November.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(by T. E. Windross)

Edmonton, Sept. 12.—Reputedly to seek financial assistance from eastern centres, probably through the federal government and the Bank of Canada, Provincial Treasurer Low is in Ottawa and other cities of eastern Canada this week. In unofficial circles at the legislative buildings here, it is believed that he is again asking some arrangement for refunding of the Alberta provincial debt if possible—and at least some method of meeting the $3,500,000 bond maturities which fall due at the first of the year.

There is reason for belief that in spite of the hard things that the present Alberta government has had to say politically and publicly against banks and the federal government, there is a growing feeling in the cabinet that the provincial government must get down to business, solve its financial difficulties by meeting its would-be benefactors half way, and establish Alberta again as a province in which it is safe to leave money and establish industry.

Premier Aberhart and Mr. Lov gave some indication of seeing the advisability of co-operation and good will by attending, in Edmonton last Tuesday, a reception for H. T. Jaffray, of Toronto, general manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada. Apart from the consideration that it is the Imperial Bank which does the provincial government's business, there were many other financial business men and bankers at that same reception.

It is realized by some members of the cabinet, too, that a substantial share of Alberta's present degree of prosperity, and much of the increased employment which the premier has mentioned, has been due to the substantial amount of construction work in the province. A large portion of that building business has been due, directly or indirectly, to the operation of the Home Improvement Plan, sponsored by the federal government and the chartered banks jointly. The banks have been loaning big sums at low interest rates in all parts of the province, for urban and farm homes alike, on a straight credit business, having nothing to do with mortgages. The Dominion Housing Plan, sponsored by the federal government in co-operation with mortgage and loan companies, does not operate in Alberta. The Dominion Housing Plan has to do with new construction, while the Home Improvement Plan covers additions and improvements to old buildings, therefore the Home Improvement Plan has played an increasingly important part in the betterment of housing conditions, in the creation of employment and in the distribution of much new wealth, through the banks.

L. D. Byrne, "Social Credit technician," who the Social Credit board obtained from Major C. H. Douglas, embarrassed the board and certain other persons, and caused many a smile in the province, when last week he repudiated a statement which had been made by W. E. Hayes, Social Credit member of the legislature for Stoney Plain, and which had been blazoned in "Today and Tomorrow," the newspaper which is owned and edited by Hon. Lucien Maynard, one of the loudest of shouters for an accurate press.

In a "Democracy Day" speech at Drumheller, Mr. Hayes had said that

Mr. Byrne could show how dividends of $4,500 a year—$125 a month—could be produced "with a few minutes' figuring." Mr. Byrne issued a statement which graciously did not mention either Mr. Hayes or Today and Tomorrow by name. He said: "The idea that the development of the resources of this province could immediately or even within several years justify a monthly dividend of $125 for distribution to all adult citizens is absurd. It ignores the basis for dividends."

The most peculiar feature of it all was the fact that Mr. Hayes is not only a member of the Social Credit board, but also the "director of information and news" for the board—the man who above all might be expected to be best posted in any statement issued concerning Social Credit.

THE FARMER'S "IF"

If you can do the job of any tiler, Carpenter, mason, plumber, engineer;
If you can drill a well and mend a boiler
And practice fifty other trades a year;
If you can run machines, and doctor cattle,
Keep setting hens on duty at their nests;
If you can fight an unremitting battle With endless armies of invading pests;
If you can face the hazards of the weather,
Gambling with Nature with your All at stake,
And when the luck's against you altogether,
Fight on, and never let your courage break;
If you can hold your patience when coping With drought or flood, with blight and smut and scale,
And lose, and start again and keep on hoping
In spite of all the harvests that may fail;
If you can share the bustlers of your neighbors
Gladly, but leave their own affairs their own;
If, notwithstanding all your endless labors,
Your spirit keeps its warmly human tone;
If you can see your every task as thrilling
Because, though sometimes wearily you plod,
You know each stubborn acre you are tilling
Is new wealth you've created from the sod
If you can find a joy at turning over The good brown earth in furrows cleanly run;
If you love scent of oats and wheat and clover
And yellow corn that ripens in the sun;
If you don't rob the soil, yet go on getting
From every acre all that it is worth;
You are a FARMER, son—and I am betting
You wouldn't trade with anyone on earth!—Berton Braley, in the Saturday Evening Post.

John Kobewka, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kobewka, was drowned in the river near Coleman yesterday morning. He was playing with other children near the river and fell in. The body has been recovered.

A local citizen is a firm believer in the good luck of "13." He says he was born on the 13th, had an exceptional piece of luck on his 13th birthday, was married on the 13th, enlisted in the 13th Battalion for overseas in the Great War on the 13th, was wounded in action on the 13th, and was discharged on the 13th. Some record, eh?

Narcisse E. Cormier, 67, retired post office department employee, and son of the late N. E. Cormier, former Conservative member of the Quebec legislature for Pontiac county, died in Aylmer, Ontario, on Sunday night last. Survivors include two sisters, Emma, at Aylmer, and Mrs. George Bond, in Blairmore.

The United church junior orchestra were re-assembled for Sunday night's service, under the leadership of Mr. J. E. Upton. One addition has been made to the orchestra, Eddie Arrol. During the service a solo was beautifully rendered by Miss L. Fraser. It is hoped that both the junior and senior choirs will be reorganized within the next few weeks.

Rinaldo D'Amico, of Hillcrest, suffered a serious accident on Saturday morning last, when his bicycle skidded in gravel on the hill leading to Bellevue and his legs were run over by a passing truck. He was taken to the Bellevue hospital, where it was found one leg was fractured and other injuries were sustained to his body.

Twenty years ago, restaurants were limited to two pounds of sugar for every ninety meals.

Fred Gavein has undertaken to blaze a ski trail between West Blairmore and Reno, Nevada, over the Rocky Mountain range. He claims it may take months to complete the job as there are many obstacles in the way, including thick brush, fallen timber, treacherous cliffs, wild animals, porcupines and skunks to be removed to safety.

The young members of the Blairmore Columbus Club held a very successful banquet in the Columbus hall on Sunday evening last, when they were hosts to the oldsters. The event inaugurated their annual parent-member banquet. About two hundred sat to a sumptuous banquet served by the girl members of the club. Toasts were proposed to The King, Pope Pius XI, Canada, The Parents, and Our Club. Following the banquet, a concert programme was staged.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

"I resolve, by the magic of lighting, selection, and arrangement, to find the pictures hidden in common things."

LONG tradition demands that everyone resolve, at the beginning of a new year, to turn over a new leaf, perhaps several new leaves. If this is a good idea for ordinary people, it is a still better idea for us as photographers. Even the best of us make mistakes that we could avoid if we would only take a firm stand—and nothing can help so much as to work out a code and then stick to it.

Here, then, is a set of New Year's Resolutions for Snapshot Guild members. Check them over and see which ones apply to you. Add any others you think of. Then paste the whole list in your photographic notebook and abide by it in the twelve-month ahead:

This year, I resolve—

1. To think always before I shoot.
2. To remember that a camera has no brain of its own, only an eye, and will only take pictures of the scenes and subjects I put in front of it.

3. To bear in mind that my pictures to be good must be interesting to other people as well as myself and that to be interesting a picture must have a central idea, a pleasing arrangement and lighting which is suited to the idea the picture is to express.

I further resolve—

4. To try to see the "hidden pictures" in everything and to ask myself, not "Is this a good picture subject?" but rather, "How can I, by the magic of lighting and arrangement, bring out the picture or pictures this subject contains?"
5. To experiment with lighting and pictorial arrangement so that, my eye will become trained to see the pictures inherent in common things.
6. To study my mistakes and note down what I did that was wrong and remember not to make the same error twice. And I resolve that whenever I make an error, I will try to do the picture over the right way, so that its lesson will be more pointed.

In other words—I resolve to make more and better pictures.
John van Guilder.

TURNER VALLEY OIL FIELD
IS A MOON TO THE WEST

Development of Turner Valley as an oil field has been a big factor in saving this year 5 1/2 million dollars for western farmers in the prices of their gasoline and tractor fuels.

Prices are lower because refiners have been able to use the surplus of crude oil near at hand. Savings have been made in freight charges and these have been passed on to the consumers.

In point of fact, the actual saving is substantially more, if one could accurately compute it. The 5 1/2 millions is figured on the basis of 1937 consumption of petroleum products, a year in which there was a poor crop. This year prairie farmers are in a better position with better crops. Cost of their equipment and supplies for operation is lower.

Obviously also, the consumption of gasoline and distillates will be greater than last year when the crop failed. Thus a calculation on the basis of the 1937 crop necessarily falls short in showing actual savings in 1938. [17]

St. Cyril's Catholic church was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony on Monday morning, September 5th, at 11 o'clock, when Flora, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Boutry, of Maple Leaf, became the bride of John, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kubasek, of Todd Creek. To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Ellen Smith, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white net, edged with taffeta, her flowing veil being held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. She was attended by Miss Kathleen Kubasek, sister of the groom, and Miss Violet Bradley, who were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of white-blue crepe, pleated from the waist. In their hair they wore white flowers, and both carried sheafs of glad-oli and fern. The tiny flower girls, the Misses Margaret Boutry, sister of the bride, and Irma Toderin, niece, were cute in pink frilled organdie dresses, wearing pink hair ribbons and both carrying bouquets of mixed flowers. Surrealism Goes Photographic

TWO WEEKS WITH PAY

This table-top photograph was taken with the aid of two photographic floodlight bulbs, "spotted" on the subject at different angles; exposure 30 seconds at f.22. The candles were then lighted, main lights turned off and the lighted candles exposed for 2 seconds. The following text will (it is hoped) explain the title.

"SURREALISM, A French movement in literature and art influenced by Freudianism, purporting to express the subconscious activities of the mind by presenting images with out order or sequence, as in a dream."

So says the dictionary, but we beg leave to amend by inserting the words, "and which has invaded the field of photography." If you don't believe it, cast a psychoanalytical eye on the above photograph and consider whether it does not truly fit the amended definition.

"Images without order or sequence as in a dream." Who will contend that the images in the above picture do not fit that part of the definition?

"Purporting to express the subconscious activities of the mind." Who dares to say that these images do not express subconscious activities quite as intelligently as any of those depicted in the surrealist concoctions of the painters?

Oh, yeah, but what activities and how?

The fair photographer who took the picture entitled it "Two Weeks With Pay," meaning a vacation, and here, believe it or not, are the subconscious activities purported to be expressed.

The washboard is the psychic symbol of labor left behind. The open handcuffs express release from said labor. The liverwort ring represents thoughts of summer hotel bridge, and Mr. Joseph Kubasek, brother of the groom. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Kubasek have taken up residence in Bellevue, where the groom is employed with the Mohawk Mines.

Congratulations to Frank Hosen are the order of the day, he having been successful in winning a scholarship to the Royal Academy of Music. This scholarship gives a tuition minimum of two years at the academy.

A correction in last week's item should have read "G. W. Cousens vacationing at the coast," instead of G. W. Goodwin.

We regret that to date the Alberta government has not seen fit to adopt the suggestion of accepting bushel for bushel in repayment of seed grain advances made to farmers last spring. Instead they are busy collecting at the rate of $1.42 per bushel, which means the government is taking about three bushels from the hard pressed farmer for each bushel supplied him in the spring. It can hardly be claimed that this vicious form of usury is applying the much talked about "Christian principles" to provincial government business.—Trochu Tribune.

RALPH CONNOR'S GREATEST BOOK TO BE PUBLISHED IN SERIAL FORM

It is seldom that so great a book as Ralph Connor's "Postscript to Adventure" is made available to readers in serial form immediately following its publication. The fact, therefore, that the Family Herald and Weekly Star has secured exclusive publishing rights for this book is indeed interesting news.

"Postscript to Adventure," as many admirers of the late Ralph Connor (Rev. C. W. Gordon) will know, is the last book he wrote, having been completed just before he died. It is an amazing tale, built around his lifetime of rich experiences, from his boyhood days in Glangary County, Ontario, to his breath-taking adventures during the World War. Critics have called it his most exciting book—as thrilling as "The Sky Pilot."

The Family Herald and Weekly Star is to be congratulated on its foresight in purchasing the rights for "Postscript to Adventure," thus making it possible for over a million readers to enjoy this great book inexpensively in serial form. Installments start in the Family Herald this month.

If you are not a Family Herald subscriber, subscribe now through The Enterprise.

We regret that frequent mention of Mr. Abernethy's silly Social Credit dope should have hurt one or two persons in the Crows' Nest Pass to cancel their subscriptions. But, judging by the many additions to our list because of the stand we have taken, we do not have to worry. Cheerio!

Two men were fishing, but couldn't get a bite. Then a little boy came along and began fishing. He pulled out a 12-inch roach, but threw it back. "Having a bit of luck, mate?" said one of the men. Then the boy caught a 16-inch pike and also threw this back into the water.

"Lummy, why are you throwing 'em back, sonny?"

"Well," said the boy, "we've only got a six-inch frypan."

SPOOK PICTURES

FROM time immemorial, from generation to generation, there have always been honest people who claimed to have seen ghosts. And during these generations since photography came into existence people believing in ghosts have maintained that, since ghosts have been seen, they can be photographed.

Even though no ghost believer, when confronted by one, seems ever to have had a camera handy to prove this claim, speculation on the question has gone so far as to suggest that, surely, photographic chemistry will some day evolve an emulsion sensitive to the emanations of the spirit world, if such there be. The discovery and photographic use of the invisible rays of the spectrum, infra-red and ultra-violet, and of x-rays, Grenz rays and other kinds of radiation for which photographic emulsions have been developed, is pointed to as giving grounds for the speculation. Certainly a fascinating, not to say alarming possibility, to contemplate, but meantime, whether or not spooks exist, present day photography has no trouble at all in making synthetic spooks.

Behold the spook illustrated. It is the work of an amateur photographer. How was it made? First, with the camera on a tripod, the door was photographed and the camera shutter closed. Then, without the camera's being moved or the film wound, the ghost walked into the picture, the ghost being a person dressed as such. Then a second exposure was made for half the time given the first exposure. In other words, it was simply the old trick of double exposure, by which all sorts of weird miracles may be performed in photography, depending upon the ingenuity of the photographer. Ghost pictures are among the simplest.

You don't believe in ghosts? Pray how did this one get there?

Old Underground Villages

Temples And Old Houses Have Been Unearthed In Peru

Dr. Wendell C. Bennett of the department of anthropology of the American museum of natural history, has returned from a six-months archaeological expedition into northern Peru where he uncovered the dwelling places, temples, pottery and metal-work of a civilization which, thus far known, is one of the oldest in Peru. Dr. Bennett was accompanied by his wife.

Dr. Bennett found whole villages containing as many as 50 subterranean houses. These dwelling places were roofed with tremendous slabs of rock, some of them measuring 12 feet long and three feet wide and evidently cut from the mountain sides, but how they were cut and transported from the quarries to the village sites is unknown. Many of the subterranean houses extended two stories below the surface and contained five or six rooms on each floor with narrow passageways leading from one floor to another and from room to room.

Bus Driver's Idea To Avoid Accidents Proved Effective

Some time ago the champion safety driver of one of the largest bus companies in the world was given a banquet and a most delectable dinner. He had completed half a million miles without an accident. When they called on him for a speech he rose and said: "I ain't much of a hand at making speeches. I suppose you want to know how I got away so long without an accident? I just got one rule. I drive like the other fellow was crazy."

Outing For Horses

Faithful old doxies, who spend 364 days of the year toiling over New York's hard city streets, journeyed over to Closter, N.J., to be guests of Douglas G. Hertz, at a gala all-day picnic. Even a beauty contest was on the program, with prizes for the oldest and most decrepit horses. The guest of honor was Anna, oldest horse in the country, who has been appearing with the Metropolitan Opera Company in "Aida," for 25 years.

Only Small Part Visible

Even though Mauna Kea in Hawaii is the highest island mountain in the world, the visible portion is only a small part of it, as it begins on a great plain 15,000 feet below sea level. It rises 14,000 feet above sea level, topped with snow. The snow gives it the name Mauna Kea, which is translated "White Mountain."

The Ashmonger who sold bad fish in the middle ages had to stand in public with his malodorous wares suspended beneath his nose.

Their Intelligence Test

Some Of The Questions Scotland's Policemen Have To Answer

Members of the police force, probably in view of the almost encyclopedic knowledge the public expect them to possess, get a good general intelligence test in the examinations through which they have to pass.

There have just been issued the question papers for the last three years of the elementary and advanced examinations of the Police (Scotland) Examinations Board. Without being difficult, some of them require a certain liveliness of brain.

Here are two from the elementary section this year: "What would you reply to your nephew, aged 10, if he asked you: (a) why does a flashlight shine when you press the switch? (b) why does a thermometer flask keep hot things hot and cold things cold?" In the next question it is a sign of the times to discover that Sherlock Holmes is not the only detective of fiction about which a policeman is expected to know something. Little Hercules Poirot now comes into the picture.

Then there is the problem of the troublesome Brown family. Father is 45, mother 43, John 20, Jean 18, George 13, and Kate eight. They all want to join some national or international social organization suited to their years and they "ask a policeman." The candidate is required to suggest something suitable for each of them. Many of the suggestions which first come to his mind would, of course, disqualify him.

In the advanced paper the candidate is expected to know the names of one or two British line of steamers principally associated with the passenger traffic on a number of given routes. The Scots, being great travellers, presumably found this a simple hurdle.

And, being great arguers, they also possibly had no trouble in proving the unsoundness of such arguments as: "The average length of life has risen from 40 to 60, so that there must be many more people in their late fifties nowadays;" or "I cat has 1 tail, 8 cats have 8 tails; therefore, by addition, 1 cat has nine tails."—London Times.

Jews Are Barred

Drastic Measures Have Been Taken In Italy

All Jews who have settled in Italy since Jan. 1, 1919, were ordered to leave the country within six months by a cabinet decree.

The decree applied even to Jews who have become Italian citizens because citizenship conferred since that date was revoked.

The edict was made applicable in Italy proper, Libya and the Aegean islands. No mention was made of Italian East Africa.

The settlement of Jews in Italy from now on was prohibited.

The decree defined as Jewish all born "of both parents of the Hebrew race regardless of religion," and Italian East Africa—Ethiopia, Somaliland, Eritrea—may prove to be the haven for most of Italy's expelled Jews.

The decree was issued after a cabinet meeting at which Premier Mussolini presided. No official information was available to show the number of Jews who would be affected by the decree but observers estimated it would be more than 10,000.

The Next War

Will Have A Devastating Effect On Mankind

Dr. Raymond Turpin, eminent French biologist and authority on heredity, in an interview scoffed at the idea war fosters qualities of strength and hardihood in the race.

In Ottawa, as the official representative of the French government to the convention of the association of French-speaking doctors of North America, Dr. Turpin said the next war would be far more devastating in its effects on the race than any past one has been.

"Other wars have at least preserved mankind as a result of the rapid progress of science and the bombardment has come to play an ever-increasing part in modern warfare, so that women who had children no longer escaped," he said.

Women, being no longer safe, will not be able to conserve the qualities of the race as they have in previous wars, he contended. Economic stringency in modern warfare would bring disastrous effects because of malnutrition.

The whipper was said to be the fastest thing on legs. This dog can travel 200 yards in from 10 to 12 seconds, or half the time a man would require.

Unveil Monument

Simple Granite Boulder To Memory Of Soldiers Erected At Vancouver

A simple granite boulder in the Canada Pacific Exhibition grounds perpetuates the memory of the Pioneer Association 29th (Vancouver) Battalion of the Great War.

The monument was unveiled and dedicated by Lieutenant-Governor E. W. Hamber in the presence of members of the Canadian Legion and other spectators.

"The glorious exploits of the battalion, participating as it did in the battles of St. Eloi, Ypres, The Somme, Vimy, Hill 70, Lens, Passchendaele, Amiens, Arras, Cambrai, Mons and in other engagements is a record that not only any battalion of itself might be justly proud, but is pre-eminently a matter of pride to Canadians in general and Vancouver in particular," the lieutenant-governor said.

During the unveiling, Legion members filed past the memorial, casting poppies on its base.

JONATHAN: COURAGEOUS FRIENDSHIP

Golden text: A friend loveth at all times. Proverbs 17:17.
Lesson I. Samuel 18:1-46; 18:1-4; 19:1-7; 20:1-42; 21:10-18; II. Samuel 11:1-12.
Devotional Reading: II. Samuel 1:23-26.

Explanations And Comments

The First Meeting of the Two Friends. I. Samuel 18:1-4. After David's victory over Goliath (chapter 17) which brought about the defeat of the Philistines, Abner, the captain of Saul's army, brought the victorious champion into King Saul's presence and Saul insisted upon his son's hand in marriage. Jonathan, Saul's son, was present at David's coming, and he loved David as his own soul. Jonathan recognized the bravery of David's deed, for he himself was very brave; with only his armorbearer he had stormed the fortress of Michmash and gained the victory.

At their first meeting Jonathan felt that nothing was too good for his new-found friend, for he loved David as his own soul. Slipping off his own robe, he gave that and all his armor to David. It was to David's interest to love Jonathan, for it was far from Jonathan's interest to love David, for it brought him into conflict with his own father.

Because Jonathan loved David, I. Samuel 19:1-7. Saul in his jealous rage against David ordered his son Jonathan and all his servants to follow him. Jonathan warned David of his danger, bidding him hide while he sought to persuade Saul not to "do against innocent blood, to slay David without a cause." His arguments prevailed for the time being, and Saul swore that David should not be put to death.

The Covenant between Jonathan and David. I. Samuel 19:2-4. David, married Michal, Saul's daughter, and she saved his life from her father's hands. Jonathan warned David of his danger, bidding him hide while he sought to persuade Saul not to "do against innocent blood, to slay David without a cause." His arguments prevailed for the time being, and Saul swore that David should not be put to death.

The king inquired where David was, and Jonathan made an excuse for him. At once Saul's anger was kindled, and he spoke insulting words to his son, telling him that as long as David lived, I. Samuel 20:1-42. Jonathan was unwilling to believe this, for, said he, "My father doth nothing great or small but that he discloseth it unto me; and why should my father hide this thing from me? Is it not so?" Then David told Jonathan: "Thy father knoweth well that I have found favor in thine eyes; and for this cause Jonathan and I have sworn to each other, and as thy love liveth, there is but a step between me and death. Jonathan promised to do whatever David wished, and David laid his plan before him.

Choose Hardy Tree Fruits

Hundreds Of Varieties Suitable To Prairie Conditions Have Been Tested

In testing upwards of a hundred varieties of tree fruits during the past 35 years at the Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, states G. D. Matthews, the Superintendent, the greatest single desirable quality has proved to be hardiness. Hardiness in crab apples is secured by crossing with the extremely hardy Siberian crab. Native fruits have contributed hardiness in plums and cherries.

Hardiness in fruit trees is the ability to withstand the combined effects of severe cold, intense heat and drought occurring during the prairie. A combination of a dry summer and a cold winter with little snow has proved particularly disastrous to promising introductions. Many specimens tested have survived well until the trees had started to bear fruit but fruiting caused a drain on the tree which resulted in winter killing during the following winter.

Certain precautions are necessary to help protect trees against these natural hazards. An effective shelter of trees lessens cold, gathers snow to add moisture, often prevents wind damage and lessens evaporation. Clean cultivation in the orchard provides the best possible chance for growth. Encouragement of bush formation in growth of fruit trees aids in gathering snow, helps protect fruit buds and guards against injury from sun shining on the trunk of the tree. In favourable years and with certain varieties where new growth continues to grow after midsummer ripening of the wood will be aided by pinching back one or two inches from the tip about the second week in August.

In choosing hardy varieties the following have been chosen for their value in this respect: Crab apples—Oman, Florence, Prince, Alberta, Robin, Anarose and Rescue. Plums—Assiniboine, Mammoth and Ojibwa. Plum x sand cherry hybrids—Opata, Sapa, Oka, Tom Thumb and Champs. For further details on adapted varieties the grower should consult the nearest Experimental Station or University.

Standard Is Replaced

King George Presents New Flag To Yeomen Of The Guard

For the first time for 129 years the Yeomen of the Guard, the oldest body of men in attendance on the King, has its own standard, presented by His Majesty in the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

The Queen, Queen Mary and the Princesses watched the ceremony from a balcony.

The King's Bodyguard had been without a standard since 1809, when the colors were lost in a fire at St. James' Palace.

The new standard is crimson. It bears the Royal badge, the date of the foundation of the corps, 1485; the badges of the Royal houses of Tudor, Stuart and Hanover, and the date of presentation.

The Yeomen, in scarlet and gold Tudor uniforms, and carrying halberds, were drawn up in two lines for the ceremony.

After their inspection by the King the new standard was consecrated by Preliminary Percival, Precentor of the Chapel Royal.

New Method Used

Under Which Dead And Dumb Children Are Taught To Talk

A. E. Chatwin, M.C., B.A., D. Paed., superintendent of the school for deaf children at Saskatoon and recent recipient of the degree of Doctor of Pedagogy from the University of Toronto, is making use of a special technique in visual education to improve the instruction given deaf children. Dr. Chatwin's method lays stress on oral instruction. By lip reading and through the use of the voice, a large majority of deaf children are able to carry on a conversation with a normal person.

Canada Year Book

Publication Of The 1938 Edition Is Announced

The publication of the 1938 edition of the Canada Year Book, published by authorization of the Hon. W. D. B. Eiler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Canada Year Book is the official statistical annual of the country and contains a thoroughly up-to-date account of the natural resources of the Dominion and their development, the history and economic condition of the Dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The 1938 Canada Year Book extends to almost 1,500 pages, dealing with all phases of the national life and more especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. A statistical summary of the progress of Canada is included in an introductory matter. This gives a picture in figures of the remarkable progress which the country has made since the first census of the Dominion was taken in 1871, sixty-seven years ago.

Attention may be called to some of the more important features of the present volume. In Chapter "I," which treats of Physiography, a revised article on the Geography of Canada appears at pp. 16-27; Part III—Sociology—last published in the 1931 Year Book is brought up to date this year; and a special article, "The Flora of Canada," prepared by Flora Adams, M.A., (Canada), Division of Botany, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, appears at pp. 30-59 as Part IV. In Part VII, which deals with Climate and Meteorology, a new section and tables on Times of Sunrise and Sunset in Canada is given.

A list of statistical agencies appearing in past editions from the year 1922-23 to 1937 will be found at page VI, immediately preceding the map of Canada.

There are over 30 maps and charts contained in the volume, and two photo-gelatine inserts illustrating the sections on "The Flora of Canada" and "Historic Sites and Monuments," respectively. Three lithographic maps are included.

Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the Kings Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts, at the price of $1.50, which covers merely the cost of paper, printing and binding. By special concession, a limited number of paper-bound copies have been set aside for ministers of religion, bona fide students and school teachers, who may obtain copies at the nominal price of 50 cents each.

The days were growing longer. Spring already had arrived in climates farther south; summer was on the way. But up here, everything remained under a burden of white. Hammond glanced far to the right.

"One less moose," he said. "There's Olson with a supply of meat! The pack that man can carry!"

They watched him angle across the drifts toward the main trail, his rifle dragging, the hind quarters of an Alaskan moose on his back.

"Think I'll go get some of that," McKenzie Joe said. "The way those wild men are coming into this country, there won't be a lot of game left."

"Get an extra piece, will you?"

"Sure. For that girl?" McKenzie Joe started away. "Guess you're right—guess she's just like the rest of us—tired of her own grub and fed up with the stuff they hand out at the Stungum."

Soon McKenzie Joe, two great hunks of moose meat freezing in his grasp, halted beside his partner.

"Well, here's the meat and there's the last of the snow burners," he said. "Sergeant Terry came along with 'em. Breakup's hit below. Wet snow most of the way until the last 40 or 50 miles."

Hammond took the unwrapped meat and started away. His course led through a mass of tents, dog huts, dirty snow piles, hastily shoveled away to reveal the foundation for a moss-chinked cabin or shacks and uprights of new buildings, the latter an output from a portable sawmill brought in over the snow. At last, he sighted a tiny log cabin; he and Joe had built it for Jeanne Towers. Then he saw the girl.

She broke from the door at his approach, running, almost sprawling over the crusted snow. She cried out; Hammond saw that she waved something in one hand. In the door, a bulky figure of a man. On came the girl; she stumbled, straightened, and continued to run.

"I've got two hundred dollars!" she cried out. "I've got two hundred dollars!"

She was transformed; almost childish in her excitement. There were tears on her cheeks.

"I've got two hundred dollars!" came again, as she reached him. "I can begin to pay you back," Hammond stared down at the money in her hand. "Oh, it isn't counterfeit. It's all good money — see — it's real."

He caught her by the arm, laughing.

"Of course, Jeanne. But where did you get it?"

"I've sold my claim. You told me it breaks any fool. But I got two hundred dollars for it—see it!"

She waved the money again. Then, turning, as the stranger came to them from the doorway, "Here's the man," she said.

The sentence was cut short. Hammond had said:

"You look like someone I met in Seattle."

"And you look like—why, you're Hammond, aren't you? My name's Bruce Kenning."

"Yes, I remember. For an instant Hammond travelled far away, back to the dock in Seattle, with the sun throwing its morning gleam on smooth waters, with Kay in his arms."

"You didn't happen to bring me a letter—or anything?"

Kenning laughed. He was a sure, appearing man, muscular, at home in breaks and boots, just as he had been at home in dinner clothes.

"No letter—but a lot of messages," he said.

"Do you know each other?" Jeanne Towers asked.

"We're old friends of the same family," Kenning explained. "Good to see you after this long trip—we'll have to spend some time together."

"Just in, eh?"

"Yes, with to-day's blinch. I tried to fight the gold fever. Couldn't. So here I am."

Hammond glanced again at the money, clutched in Jeanne's white hands, or standing, hands over eyes.

"I'll say this for you. You work fast."

"Don't! This smile was disarming. 'Queer how it turned out. I went into Miss Towers store for some tobacco. Got to talking about the district of course. I asked what you were doing.'"

Hammond laughed. "Always check up on the fellow who's made the strike!"

"Certainly—first job of a good geologist."

"You know your mining, eh?" Jack jerked his head. "My cabin's right here. Walk over."

"Glad to," Kenning answered. "Fine. I've a drop or two of Scotch left." Impulsively he laid a hand on the shoulder of Jeanne Towers, as she took the moose meat he had brought her. "Yacht better sharpen up your pencil and see what you're going to buy for your store when break-up comes."

"But I wanted to pay you."

"That can wait." He patted her shoulder again. Still somewhat dazed by sudden wealth Jeanne Towers said:

"No! This was new. 'Who?'" turned to her cabin. Hammond caught eagerly at his companion's arm.

"Listen," he said. "I can't wait. Tell me all about Kay. Is she well? Is she coming up here? Did she really mean it—you know—treating me like she cared something about me?"

Weeks later, he still was asking the same questions. He and Kenning stood on a side hill, where forget-me-nots bloomed at the edge of retreating drifts, and the blue of lupine contrasted with the first buds of mountain rhododendrons.

Spring had come as if a book had been opened and a chapter turned. The streams, only ten days before constricted by mounds of ice, now roared to the outpouring of a thousand mountain slides. Every gulch contributed its rivulets, every rock slide sprayed a plumelike waterfall. Below in the village, the sound of hammers echoed endlessly. With waters at flood stage, halting much of the gold-seeking, the thoughts of a new civilization had turned to building. That is why Hammond and Kenning had come up here on the hill. Back of them stood a new cabin—the one Hammond had promised Kay Joyce he would build for her.

"Great view from up here," Kenning said at last.

They could look down on the big lake; a moose feeding in a far-away, shallow bay, a few miners fishing in the clear water just off the inlet.

"You can't kick on the one you get from your place," Hammond answered. Kenning had built his cabin on the next hill.

"I went there for a drink, the last of Kenning's supply. Then, with another pridelful survey of Kay's house, Hammond dropped down the hill. At last, he walked through the hush again along the bubbling course of Leon creek and toward Jeanne's tiny store. She was alone there.

He paused at the door to watch her, sitting on a rough bench. She noticed Hammond's presence, and with a quick smile disengaged herself.

"Hello!" she said. It was a welcome, a greeting and an obeisance all in one.

"Hello," he answered casually. "Still got your two hundred dollars?"

"Oh, I've hidden it." Then, "You missed the excitement. Sergeant Terry just got a customer for the gold."

"Oh, that Jorgeson fellow. He got in a fight with his wife. He must have beaten her up terribly."

"Too bad. She complained, eh?" Jeanne shook her head.

"No—she stood for it. Somebody else told Terry. Her kind is always afraid to complain. People say they're not married."

Jack laughed.

"Well, she's lucky at that. Not being tied to him."

Jeanne came forward and leaned against the door. The brightness was gone temporarily from her features, she looked thoughtfully toward the new, raw camp.

"Oh, I don't know, Jack. Sometimes a woman who isn't married is tied tighter to a man than she is her wife. You see, she hasn't anything else—she lost it when she went with him. Maybe—that's why she stands for so much."

She halted suddenly and attentively turned her head upward. "What's that?"

"Sounds like a motor boat. It couldn't be."

"There's a faint shout came from far away. It was picked up by a dozen voices. The fishermen, down at the inlet, cried out—faintly, Jack caught the words:

"Airplane! Airplane coming! There's an airplane!"

Doors were banging as Jeanne and Hammond ran from the store. Everyone was running, for that matter, or standing, hands over eyes.

Far down the valley, where Lake Sapphire merged with the sky, a great, wide-winged bird was limned against the sunset, moving swiftly into sharper definition.

It circled the town and travelled far down the lake, dropping lower, lower. At last, with its trailing edge-

Saps cutting down its speed, it slipped still nearer the lake; its engine started anew, and out of again.

Spray scattered like plumes of jetting steam from its pontoons; swishing and splashing, it skipped the water in great leaps, settled again, ploughed onward; then, with the engine roaring anew, began to shoot toward shore.

Men ran into the marshy shallows to greet it, pawing wildly about, then wading frantically to get out of its way. The pilot rose in his cockpit, to motion furiously, warning excited watchers against the danger of the propeller. Jack Hammond gave an exultant shout. He leaped from the side of Jeanne Towers and splashed into the water without even feeling it.

"Hello, Timmy!" he yelled. "You made it, Timmy!"

The man in the cockpit, veering from side to side as he watched the water depths about him, raised a hand in answer, then swiftly returned to his task.

Now Jack could see the cabin windows. Two persons were inside. Hammond saw that Kay was one of them. He cupped his hands to his mouth and shouted at the height of his lungs. He jumped up and down in the water until he was dripping, he waved his arms. He jerked out his hand and threw it at the cabin door—at last it opened.

Are Not Always Given To Papers Just For Publicity

A lady had some visitors in her home but she did not want any mention of it made in the paper. She did not like publicity in any way. It seemed to her it was a little too much like parading the affairs of the home before the whole community. If some person had come to visit at her home then it was purely a family affair and not something in which the public would be interested.

There are some people who look at the thing that way, but there are others who do not. Here is a little actual experience: "When I had visitors at my home I had no idea there was a notice in the paper saying who they were and where they were staying. They had lived here a number of years before and there were people in the city whom I knew they would like to meet again, and who were as much interested in them as I was."

"That little item in the paper did exactly what I hoped for. People knew at once our friends and their friends would be interested."

The Way To Peace

Britain And U.S. Set Good Example To European Leaders

Joseph Kennedy, United States ambassador, gave Europe's leaders a tip—to follow the example of Great Britain and the United States in settling their differences.

He expressed confidence that Anglo-American devotion to the principle of "good neighborly settlement" would "keep us out of war."

The ambassador spoke at a luncheon preceding a ceremony at the Cathedral of Aberdeen.

His reference was to settlement of British and American claims over Canton and Enderbury islands in the South Pacific by which both countries decided to use them in common.

"Fighting, whether called war or not, and threat of fighting come from the impatience and inability of leaders to work out pacific settlements," he said.

"We believe we have just witnessed an example of good-natured settlement—a profound difference of opinion between Great Britain and the United States—a cameo of what world settlement might be if the same intelligent good-neighborliness were always exhibited by different nations."

Just As A Protection

Any Horse Shies When It Senses A Lurking Danger

Our Dumb Animals save horses, dependent on fleet-footedness for safety, were creatures of the plains. They hold their heads high so they can be on their feet instantly, ready to race away. A horse still shies because, in the wild, many enemies lurked in roadside herbage. When it lies at rest, it does so facing the probable point of danger, and rises on its front feet first, that it may more easily discover it. A colt takes its nourishment in small doses, never gorging, ready to run at a moment's warning.

Cause of Crash

Failure of Wing Tip Responsible For Plane Accident

Failure of the right wing tip of the aeroplane was the cause of a crash at Yorkton, Sask., on May 29 in which E. L. Fletcher, pilot, and David Downes, pupil, lost their lives. A board of inquiry has reported to Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport.

The board found the wing tip failed while the machine was being manoeuvred out of a steep glide following a spin into a steep spiral, and that the whole wing subsequently collapsed, making the aircraft completely uncontrollable.

An examination of the broken pieces of wing, the report said, indicated the main structural members were of sound material. The evidence indicated the original cause of the failure was the breaking of the drag bracing wires.

Placer Gold in Yukon

Total Production Last Year Was Valued At $2,042,000

Placer gold mining in the unglaciated areas of Yukon shows promise of continuing as an important industry for at least another 50 years, according to the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa. The Klondike district, chief Canadian source of placer gold, and the main field in the unglaciated area, alone contains sufficient proved reserves to keep most of the dredges now operating or under construction in operation for more than 15 years.

Development along modern engineering lines is showing that the Klondike contains much larger reserves of placer gravels than was formerly regarded as probable, and large areas of probable and possible gravels still remain to be tested.

Total placer gold production in Yukon in 1937 was $3,348 fine ounces valued at $2,042,000, and the total value of all mineral production from the Territory to the end of 1937 is $215,444,000, of which $192,500,000 represents the value of gold production.

Are Expert Swimmers

Phalaropes—Have A Characteristic Different From Other Canadian Shore Birds

The Canadian Resources Bulletin says phalaropes, which are among the most delightful of Canadian shore birds have some unusual characteristics. First they differ from most other shore birds in being expert swimmers.

The second unusual feature about phalaropes is their home life. The female phalarope takes the initiative in courting rites, and makes the first advance toward the shy and modestly colored prospective mate. The females are larger, handsomer, and wear brighter plumage than the males.

After Mrs. Phalarope lays her eggs, mankind betakes herself to pursue her favorite pastime, more than often to join other ladies of leisure of her own kind in small sociable flocks, while the obedient and faithful Mr. Phalarope incubates the eggs and shoulders practically all of the cares and worries of the household.

Plans being made for the new stadium in Nuremberg, Germany, call for a seating capacity of 400,000, making it the largest in the world.

Probably the greatest danger facing many people to-day is not so much the danger that they will do something wrong as the danger that they will fail to do something right.
